GOSPEL READING

Luke 19:28-40

50:4-7

A reading from the holy Gospel according to Luke. Glory to you, O Lord.

At that time Jesus went on ahead, going up to Jerusalem.

When he drew near to Bethphage and Bethany, at the mount that is called Olivet, he sent two of the disciples, saying, 'Go into the village in front of you, where on entering you will find a colt tied, on which no one has ever yet sat. Untie it and bring it here. <31>If anyone asks you, "Why are you untying it?" you shall say this: "The Lord has need of it."

So those who were sent went away and found it just as he had told them. And as they were untying the colt, its owners said to them, 'Why are you untying the colt?'

And they said, 'The Lord has need of it.'And they brought it to Jesus, and throwing their cloaks on the colt, they set Jesus on it. And as he rode along, they spread their cloaks on the road. As he was drawing near — already on the way down the Mount of Olives — the whole multitude of his disciples began to rejoice and praise God with a loud voice for all the mighty works that they had seen, saying, 'Blessed is the King who comes in the name of the Lord! Peace in heaven and glory in the highest!' And some of the Pharisees in the crowd said to him, 'Teacher, rebuke your disciples.' He answered,'I tell you, if these were silent, the very stones would cry out.'

The Gospel of the Lord. Praise to you, Lord Jesus Christ.

FIRST READING

A reading from the prophet Isaiah

The Lord God has given me the tongue of those who are taught, that I may know how to sustain with a word him who is weary.

Morning by morning he awakens; he awakens my ear to hear as those who are taught.
The Lord God has opened my ear, and I was not rebellious; I turned not backwards.
I gave my back to those who strike, and my cheeks to those who pull out the beard; I hid not my face from disgrace and spitting. But the Lord God helps me; therefore I have not been disgraced; therefore I have set my face like a flint, and I know that I shall not be put to shame.

The word of the Lord. Thanks be to God.

Responsorial Psalm

Psalm 21:8-9,17-20,23-24 Response v.2

R/. My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?

All who see me deride me.
They curl their lips, they toss their heads.
'He trusted in the Lord, let him save him;
Let him release him if this is his friend.' R/.

Many dogs have surrounded me, a band of the wicked beset me.

They tear holes in my hands and my feet I can count every one of my bones. R/.

They divide my clothing among them. They cast lots for my robe.
O Lord, do not leave me alone,
my strength, make haste to help me! R/.

I will tell of your name to my brethren And praise you where they are assembled. You who fear the Lord give him praise; all sons of Jacob, give him glory. Revere him, Israel's sons. R/.

SECOND READING

A reading from the letter of St Paul to the Philippians

2:6-11

Christ Jesus, though he was in the form of God, did not count equality with God a thing to be grasped, but emptied himself, by taking the form of a servant, being born in the likeness of men. And being found in human form, he humbled himself by becoming obedient to the point of death, even death on a cross. Therefore God has highly exalted him and bestowed on him the name that is above every name, so that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, in heaven and on earth and under the earth, and every tongue confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

The word of the Lord. Thanks be to God.

GOSPEL ACCLAMATION

Phil 2:8-9

Praise to you, O Christ, king of eternal glory! Christ was humbler yet, Even to accepting death, death on a cross. But God raise him high And gave him the name which is above all names. Praise to you, O Christ, king of eternal glory!

PALM SUNDAY

Lectionary Year C

The Word of God

Poem of the Week

"Blessings on the King who comes, in the name of the Lord!"

The central figure of Palm Sunday is our Blessed Lord. His teaching on this day is simple for His followers, but difficult for the bystander: peace. The Prince of Peace proclaims that His kingdom is one of peace. There is no violence, no retaliation, no retribution in His kingdom. Palm Sunday teaches us to absorb all the hurts, heartaches and the heaviness, otherwise peace will never reign in us or in the world. Peace comes from turning the other cheek, going the extra mile and giving and giving of self and time to others.

So Palm Sunday gives us the opportunity to examine our own faithfulness to Christ. On this wonderful day when we process and wave our palm branches and take our palm crosses home for yet another year, it is all so easy to be caught up with the excitement of it all and get carried along by the very moving Palm Sunday liturgy. The test comes the next day. Are we prepared to stay with Our Lord in Jerusalem as the atmosphere changes towards Him? Do we dare to stand by Him as He faces constant conflict with the religious leaders? Do we love Him enough to want to bathe His weary feet? Do we stay with Him in prayer in the Garden? Are our bodies and souls drained as He dies on the Cross? All these encounters should be included in our cry of "Hosanna to the Son of David: Blessed is He comes in the name of the Lord" to-day.

As well as Palm Sunday piercing our souls for faithfulness for the whole of this Holy Week, it also should pierce our conscience in relation to our overall faithfulness. Again like Palm Sunday festivities, it is rather easy to strive towards holiness when everything seems to be going well but when the bolt out of the blue strikes, what then? When we have to suffer endlessly whether through physical or spiritual pain, especially if it is inflicted on us by others, what then? When God seems far removed from us and all is dark and despondent, what then? When life seems empty and aimless, what then? Has our faith rooted itself deeply enough to help us cope with these situations, so that they do not control us? Can we see such situations as growing times in holiness or better still more Christ-like?

As we welcome our Lord this day with our palm branches and sing our "Hosannas", may it be done with sincerity and in the knowledge that before we welcome Him as our Risen Lord on Easter Day, our knees must watch and pray with His in His agonized moments in Gethsemene, our feet must tread with His along the streets of Jerusalem, and our souls must experience His anguish and grief on the cross. May we receive His grace to follow Him to Calvary. Amen.

Palm Sunday

Astride the colt and claimed as King that Sunday morning in the spring, he passed a thornbush flowering red that one would plait to crown his head.

He passed a vineyard where the wine was grown for men of royal line and where the dregs were also brewed into a gall for Calvary's rood.

A purple robe was cast his way, then caught and kept until that day when, with its use, a trial would be profaned into a mockery.

His entourage was forced to wait to let a timber through the gate, a shaft that all there might have known would be an altar and a throne.

Prayer of the Week

The Anima Christi

Soul of Christ, sanctify me.
Body of Christ, save me.
Water from the side of Christ, wash me.
Passion of Christ, strengthen me.
O Good Jesu, hear me.
Suffer me not to be separated from thee.
From the malicious enemy defend me.
In the hour of my death, call me and bid me come to thee, that with thy saints I may praise thee for ever and ever. Amen.
